

PAM LEINMILLER

ELEVATING EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION

Meet Pam

Pam Leinmiller has an elevated perspective on communication. She has climbed multiple mountains, including Mount Kilimanjaro, and helps her audiences scale equally daunting heights, guiding them through the terrain of public speaking.

Pam leverages diverse technical and non-technical training, with expertise in IT, pharmaceutical, healthcare, research, marketing and sales, as well as her certifications in DISC and Driving Forces Assessments with TTI Success Insights.

Her deep understanding of how we think and learn captivates audiences, as they connect with her compelling stories of challenges overcome. She not only helps brilliant leaders become equally brilliant communicators, she trains some of today's most outstanding thought leaders to effectively share their messages as a TEDx speaker coach.

PAM'S MOST REQUESTED TALKS:

Communicating As If Your Life Depends On It

Climbers never climb alone and their climbs require precise, time-sensitive communication. Similarly, in business if you don't communicate effectively with your team you won't necessarily make it. The dangers of missed communications can be devastating. Learn how to build a clear message that connects and convinces at the highest levels. Your professional life depends on it.

Peak Communication For Peak Performance

High performance organizations require high performance communications. Just like scaling the highest mountains in the world, proper skills and techniques are vital for scaling the dizzying heights of exceptional communication. These skills can be taught and used effectively, regardless of the individual's comfort level with public speaking. The result is more cohesive teams, clearer objectives, and better results.
